RUBI'S SCREWTOP SCIENCE

WHAT'S THE BUZZ?

Rubi put wasps under the microscope to find out all about them!

Only female wasps can sting.

It's not only bees that pollinate flowers, wasps can too!

The smallest wasp in the world is a wasp called the 'fairy wasp'. It's less than half a millimetre long.

Most wasps aren't just black and yellow, they can also be red, brown, green or blue!

Wasps make their own paper to build their nests by chewing and spitting out pieces of bark!

Wasps can be found everywhere in the world - apart from Antarctica!
